Windows NT Conference Tapes

Audio and video tapes of 46 different sessions at the Windows NT Professional Developers Conference, held July 6–8 in San Francisco, are now available. For a quick overview, get video tapes 1 and 2—the keynote, by Bill Gates, and the Win32/Windows NT Demo and Technical Overview, by Paul Maritz.

Video tapes are $25 each, and audio tapes are $5.50 each. The complete set is $700. To order or request a complete list of sessions, contact GT Recording at 800/878-2737 or 206/783-6911; fax 206/782-3515.

Embedded Systems Conference

The fourth annual Embedded Systems Conference will be held September 21–23 at the Santa Clara Convention Center. The program includes five optional full-day tutorials on Monday and several dozen one- or two-hour presentations Tuesday through Thursday. The exhibit floor opens at 2 pm Monday and closes at 6:30 pm Wednesday. Most of the sessions are software oriented, but a few—such as Evaluating and Selecting High-End Processors, by Microprocessor Report editor Michael Slater, cover hardware issues. The keynote presentation on Monday evening, titled Microprocessors for Embedded Systems: Beyond the Folklore, will be given by Nick Tredennick.

Early registration is $695 for the conference, $395 for the optional tutorials, or $995 for both; prices go up $100 after September 4. Exhibit-only registration is free if sent by September 4, or $25 thereafter. Call 214/245-6012 or fax to 214/245-8700.

Neural Networks in Nîmes, France

The fifth annual Neural Networks and Their Applications conference will be held November 2–6 in Nîmes, France. Tutorials will be presented on November 2 and 3; the main conference is November 4–6; and the exhibits will be open November 3–6. Conference registration is FF 5000; tutorials range from FF 1100 to FF 3800, depending on length. University discounts are available. For sessions presented in French, simultaneous translation to English will be provided.
